As an American Soldier in Afghanistan in response to the attacks by Al Queda and the Taliban on 9/11, I was encouraged and gratified by the presence of ISAF. To see so much of the world sharing in this effort was extraordinary and the time I spent at KIA waiting on a C-130 to Kandahar was spent meeting some of those soldiers from the following countries: United Kingdom, Australia, Canada, Germany, Spain, Portugal, France, Italy, Belgium, Hungary, Romania, Estonia, Slovenia, Turkey, Norway, Latvia, Japan, Netherlands, Hungary, and Switzerland. I know that my children would be interested in the different types of vehicles used by the militaries of these different countries and this was an opportunity to see so many different vehicles of different counties all in the same parking lot.

German Armored Vehicles
Italian Armored Vehicles
Spainish Armor Vehicle
British Armored Vehicle
In addition to vehicles, we saw many different types of aircraft including the largest in the world built by the Russians, The Condor.
